

LITERARY NOTES.

Wallace's "Russia" has reached its fifth edition.

S. C. Griggs & Co., Chicago, propose to publish a selection from Sainte-Beuve's "Consiers du Loup," in translation, under the title of "Monday Chats."

A new edition of Mr. Greeley's Political Economy is to be brought out by Porter & Coates, Philadelphia, who purchased the plates from Messrs. Jas. R. Osgood & Co.

Mr. Charles Nordhoff's work on "The Communist Societies of the United States" has received the compliment of a translation into Russian, and its publication in St. Petersburg is said to be looked forward to as an important literary event.

An important book on "Christianity and Islam," by an English writer, the Rev. W. E. W. Stephens, is in press for early publication by Scriven, Armstrong & C. The author is a clear, strong writer, whose position is reflected in these words, from one of his chapters: "The power of the Gospel dates from the day when its Founder surrendered Himself to His enemies. The power of Islam dates from an appeal to the sword of the flesh."
